

Hurricane Iselle Aftermath

Many on Oahu think that hurricane Iselle was just another false alarm and that there was really nothing to worry about. Tell that to the folks in Puna, many of whom are still without food, water and electricity. As the following video shows, there are hundreds if not thousands of trees down, blocking roads and damaging houses. And this was only a category 1 storm. The trees down are mostly Albezia trees of which Manoa has more than its fair share.
